VOTER FREEDOM TRIUMPHS

No on 2 celebrates defense of Alaska's open primary system

[Anchorage, AK] — Alaskans have spoken.

For the second time in four years, Alaskans have once again voted for open primaries and ranked choice voting, for preserving their voter freedom and power, and for protecting their right to vote for the best candidate, regardless of political party.

No on 2 Executive Director Juli Lucky and Campaign Chair Lesil McGuire released the following joint statement:

"The results have been certified and officially recounted. We are proud and grateful that Alaskan voters have taken a stand to protect our voter freedom.

Alaskans have voted twice in four years on this issue, and both times the results have been the same. Alaskans want to keep the power of the electoral process where it belongs—with the voters. Alaskans have made their voices heard, they know the power their votes carry, and they don't intend to give up their hard-won freedoms.

Thank you to the countless Alaskans who've worked and volunteered tirelessly to preserve our open primary and ranked choice voting system. We've seen the real-time benefits of that system play out even in the short time since Election Day.

Simply put, this result is Alaskan voters getting to make their own decisions about how they vote for their chosen candidate. They've chosen to protect our voter freedom, and we are thrilled."
